

COMMON RULE REVISIONS: THE SAGA CONTINUES!

DANIEL NELSON

Director

Human Research Protocol Office (HRPO)

National Health and Environmental Effects Research Laboratory (NHEERL)

U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA)

The Common Rule regulations that govern human subjects research were revised in January 2017, after a 6-year rulemaking process. Changes were made in many areas, including informed consent, continuing review, exemptions and multi-site research, with an effective date of January 2018. This session will review the major changes and provide an update on current status.