

Industry Connections

Community Colleges Bridging the Gap Between High School and Life Science Industry

Participants will learn how several community colleges across our state help prepare high school students from all backgrounds for careers in the life science industry. From affordable degree programs to certifications like BioWork, explore ideas and activities that get the next generation ready for the life science workforce.

Presentation Target:

High School

Presenter(s):

1. Lisa Smelser, Program Director of Biotechnology, Central Carolina Community College
2. Courtney Behrle, Senior Director of STEM Outreach, BioNetwork