Presentation Title: The Superpowers of Succulents

Elementary school teachers are invited to come learn about the unique properties of succulents – our superhero plants that purify our air, help us breathe, boost our mood and help us remain focused.

We will review a classroom lesson plan that teaches elementary school students about these powerful plants, and each teacher in our session will plant and take home a succulent. The lesson that we will review is geared for all students, even those who do not have yards to plant a tree. Through superpower succulents, all children can improve their indoor air quality.
